

Factors That May Lead to Disability Insurance Denial

When applying for disability insurance, you could be denied coverage due to various factors such as:

- Pre-existing health conditions
- Undisclosed medical issues
- Pending medical treatments
- Unresolved past treatments or conditions in your medical records
- Engaging in high-risk occupations
- Self-prescribing medications
- Being classified as either overweight or underweight